

Earthquake Info For Cragmont Parents

In the event of a serious earthquake, Student Release Stations will be set up at the top of the Spruce stairs and at the bottom of the Regal Road stairs. Once parents have been signed in by Lorraine or one of her assistants at the station, one of two scenarios may take place:

A- A runner will go get your child and bring them to the Student Release Station.

B- Parents will receive a student release slip and parents will go to where their child's class is lined up on the yard and present the student release slip to the classroom teacher who will then release the child to the parent.

Some parents, after seeing that their child is fine, may want to help with First Aid, Search and Rescue or Fire Suppression. Individuals who would like to help should clearly communicate with the classroom teacher that you are leaving your child with the him/her. Then proceed to the Command Center (the kindergarten yard) where they will check in with Ms. Bradley to get a safety vest. It is very important that you check in with the Command Center before beginning to help.

We can not over emphasize how important it is that all parents go through the Student Release Station before taking their child home. Teachers and staff on our Search and Rescue Team risk~~ing~~ their lives by reentering the building to search for missing children and adults. If a child is taken off campus without being checked out, the Search and Rescue Team may take unnecessary risks searching for them.

Earthquake Drill

In the event of an earthquake drill, Eveyn will ring the bell twice and then announce on the intercom, "The earthquake drill has begun. Teachers, please instruct your students how to proceed."

At that time, teachers should say, "EARTHQUAKE DRILL - DUCK AND COVER." Students (and teacher) should take cover by kneeling under a desk, head pointing in, away from windows and possible falling objects. Direct students to cover the back of their necks with one hand and grasp a leg of their desks with their other hand.

After about 2 minutes, instruct students, 4 - 5 at a time, to come out from under their desks and line up at the door. Grab your back pack. Your class list should be inside - please check today to make sure that it is. Lead your class in a quiet line out of the building (see attached exit rout map). Line up with your partner class in the appropriate place on the yard (see attached)

Once outside, tell students to SIT on the ground. Call roll.

In the case of an actual earthquake, if an aftershock starts, have students assume the same position they did under the tables .
